

Donating Your Organization's Records

A Guide from the Kennesaw State University Archives and Special Collections

The KSU Archives collects records of organizations which pertain to North and Northwest Georgia. These include collections such as the Cobb County Chapter of the NAACP Records, the Georgia Marble Collection, and the Marietta Housing Authority Records.

What Is Historically Valuable Material?

Many types of materials can be valuable for researchers. KSU's professional archivists are experts in identifying materials that should be transferred to an archival repository or manuscript library. Before records are transferred to KSU, an archivist will survey your organization's papers and digital files to determine which materials have enduring historical value. The research value of records may be diminished if items are removed or if the records are rearranged, so you should contact our archivists before weeding, discarding, or reorganizing papers and records, regardless of their location or format.

Listed below are some types of records that archival repositories preserve for historical and administrative research.

- Architectural records
- Articles of incorporation, charters
- Audio recordings
- Budgets
- Bylaws and revisions
- Clippings
- Constitution and revisions
- Correspondence/email of officers
- Data sets
- Directories
- Financial statements
- Handbooks
- Legal documents
- Memoranda
- Minutes of meetings
- Membership lists
- Motion picture film, videotape, audio recordings, DVDs, and CDs
- Newsletters and other publications (generated by the organization)
- Organizational charts
- Pamphlets, brochures, fliers, etc.
- Photographs
- Planning documents
- Press releases
- Reports (annual, committee, etc.)
- Rosters
- Scrapbooks
- Speeches
- Subject files

Please note that the above list pertains to digital versions of such items as well.

To ensure the preservation of materials for potential transfer to the KSU Archives, physical items should be kept in a cool, dry, temperature-stable environment. Digital materials should be backed up regularly and have descriptive file names and consistent naming conventions.

While we may not accept everything that you offer (due to space constraints or our collecting mission), we always welcome the chance to review material. If it does not fit the scope of our repository, we may be able to refer you to another institution.

Donating Your Organization's Records

Deeds of Gift

Representatives of your organization and the repository will sign a deed of gift that documents the legal transfer of ownership and outlines the conditions of the donation to the mutual agreement of all involved.

As a condition of accepting the gift, the KSU Archives reserves the right to exhibit or use for research any collection of materials, but we cannot promise or guarantee that donated material will be used in any specific manner.

If your organization is an ongoing enterprise, it is best to make periodic donations of records to your selected repository at regular intervals determined through discussion with our archivists. To assure regular contact, your organization can add the periodic transfer of inactive records to the duties of one of its officers.

Our digital archivist will be able to advise you further on the donation of digital materials. Part of the process is discussing how you use your computer in your work or personal life, including organization, file names, and file storage, especially storage in places, such as backup disks or thumb drives, other computing devices, networked or cloud storage, or on the Internet. The archivist will also discuss any concerns you may have about deleted content, passwords, and personally identifiable information contained on donated digital storage media.

Availability and Access

KSU's policies regarding availability, duplication, and publication govern access to the materials in our repository. An archivist will discuss the repository's access policies and any special needs or concerns with a representative of your organization before completing the deed of gift.

Sensitive material may exist in physical and born-digital organizational records. To protect the privacy of individuals or trade secrets, it may be necessary to discuss restrictions on access to portions of the collection. While our preference is to make all materials freely accessible to researchers, we will agree to reasonable and equitable restrictions for limited periods of time.
